

Wayne Jiang is a realist painter based in Northern California. Combining the aesthetic of 17th century Baroque paintings and the composition of modern documentary photography, his works have been described as the contemporary interpretations of Van Eyck, Vermeer, and Hopper. His work has been widely exhibited in museums and galleries such as the Triton Museum, Crocker Museum, Sanchez Art Center, History San José, and Solomon Dubnick Gallery.

While studying painting and illustration at San Jose State University, Wayne had to reluctantly give up oil painting due to health reasons. Because of his love of old master paintings, he developed a unique style of acrylic painting resembling oil paintings of old Dutch master painters. Over the last two decades, Wayne has been perfecting his unique acrylic technique by applying it to a variety of subjects including portrait, landscape, still life, and night scene.

About Sanchez Art Center

Sanchez Art Center is nestled in the heart of Pacifica's Linda Mar Valley, about 1.5 miles due east of Highway 1. The Art Center was created in 1996 by the hard work of many community artists and volunteers who resuscitated an old school building that now houses three galleries, eighteen studios, a ceramic lab, and an art classroom. Our mission is to "create community through art." We fulfill this mission by offering visual arts programs in four areas: exhibitions, arts education, community engagement, and affordable studio rentals.
